A few helpful things to know about fire extinguishers:

- Fire extinguishers are required in all commercial buildings as well as all residential buildings with 3 units or more.
- They must be inspected, tested, and maintained annually by a certified technician. A service tag will be attached showing the last service date.
- An extinguisher must be placed within reach of 75 feet from anywhere in the building and there must be at least one on each level.
- Extinguishers must be either in an approved cabinet or located on a hanger or bracket no more than 5 feet above the floor.
- They must be in a conspicuous location, unobstructed, and unobscured, and ready for use at all times.
- Most commonly, a 2:A 10:BC extinguisher is required, but different hazards require different types of extinguishers. Contact your provider for current requirements.
